The creative process is equivalent to erecting a miniature replica of the Taj Mahal using only matchsticks and chewing gum while riding a breaching humpback whale through an ocean of lard; also, your eyes have been pecked out by sea gulls and your hair is on fire. All other metaphors and similes fail to snare the foot of the matter.

Riding a Whale through an Ocean of Lard: A Conversation ...
The sea lard is a plump, orange, and slightly oval creature. It has a dangling lump of flesh on its forehead and a similiarly-shaped nose with a few hairs on it. Sea lards closely resemble Greed Lards and Space Lards but are smaller and, unlike Greed Lards, wingless. The lard has a slothful reputation due to its slow movements on land.

Ocean water is constantly evaporating, increasing the temperature and humidity of the surrounding air to form rain and storms that are then carried by trade winds. In fact, almost all rain that falls on land starts off in the ocean. The tropics are particularly rainy because heat absorption, and thus ocean evaporation, is highest in this area.
