In Nola it was the already popular and venerated tomb of the 3rd century martyr St Felix which attracted Paulinus and which would play a central role in his further life and work. As bishop Paulinus composed letters, which kept him in touch with friends and colleagues all over the Roman empire such as Augustine, Jerome, Sulpicius Severus, Delphinus and Ausonius. 4 One of the central themes in these letters became Christian friendship. Famous is the exchange of verse-letters with Ausonius, in ...

Spiritual life. Whilst Therasia of Nola embraced religious life alongside Paulinus, Amanda and Aper's partnership was different. In their case, Aper took a religious life, whilst his wife Amanda took on the 'worldly responsibilities' so he could focus on the spiritual. By supporting her husband's spiritual life practically, Amanda was also living a holy life, being "a safe tower on a steady ...
