In Thank You for Arguing, Jay Heinrichs endeavors to show why the lost art of rhetoric—the study of argument and persuasion—can help people understand the world, help them succeed, and generally improve their lives. In Part One, “Offense,” Heinrichs lays out the basics of arguing. Every argument has three basic steps: first, stimulating the audience's emotions, second, changing the audience's opinion, and third, getting the audience to do or choose something.

Pathos is a powerful rhetorical tool. Sometimes, when a speaker discusses a frightening possibility, the speaker's words alone can make an audience feel frightened, too. One important principle of pathos is, “When you want to change someone's mood, tell a story.” Single words or ideas rarely have an effect on someone's mood—a cohesive narrative is more effective since it gives the ...
