As a writer and pastoral musician, Elaine has served as the editor of Today’s Liturgy—a quarterly magazine offering insightful articles and music suggestions to aid in liturgy preparation. She has written extensively on various topics, including pastoral care and liturgical music, and her work has been featured in several publications.

The philosophy and mission of the Office of Pastoral Care and Spiritual Life is to provide compassionate and dedicated pastoral care to the people of the parish with a focus on the teachings of the Catholic Church. They offer support to individuals and families during various life situations, including marriage and family life.

The Pastoral Care Ministry provides services for key events in every church member's life. They help them lead healthy and meaningful lives, and they work towards the success of everyone involved in the marriage. They also offer marriage preparation programs that help engaged couples prepare for their future lives together.

Chapter 6: Pastoral Care and the Crises of Life by Homer L. Warner discusses the importance of pastoral care in various aspects of life, including marriage. The book explores the role of the pastor in providing guidance and support during significant life events.

Pastoral care in marriage preparation (Can. 1063): History, analysis of the norm, and its implementation by some particular churches is a book by Fintan Gavin. It examines the history of pastoral care in marriage preparation and discusses its implementation in various churches.

It is crucial that while there may not be an official extension of marriage preparation in place right now, local clergy, or pastoral ministers are always at hand to give support and assistance. The Church's involvement in preparation for marriage of its members has developed and adapted in order to respond to the particular needs of the church community, especially in the case of clerics...