Simple Visualizations for a Statics Problem in MATLAB. Doug Hull, MathWorks (Originally posted on Doug's MATLAB Video Tutorials blog.) A colleague was trying to draw some structures and do basic static analysis on them. He wanted to write a routine that would draw a pinned beam given the locations of the two pins. This can be done pretty easily ...

Probability and Statistics In this section we present some examples to solve typical ' probability and statistics ' problems. We present the Matlab code without using any special toolbox or instruction. Everything is plain and simple... You could even code the same algorithms in other programming languages without any problem!
